

Rocket[®] Software Security Conversion Services

Simplifying ESM conversions
for your enterprise

Rocket Software security conversion services

In today's rapidly evolving digital landscape, organizations must maintain a robust security foundation to protect their mission-critical mainframes. For many, this includes relying on Enterprise Security Managers (ESMs) like CA ACF2®, CA Top Secret®, or RACF® to oversee their mainframe security environment. But priorities are shifting and the ESM market is evolving. It's crucial to ensure your organization is using the best-suited and most cost-effective package for your needs. This is why many of our customers are converting to IBM RACF®.

Converting can be challenging and costly, especially when done without the knowledgeable use of resources and without sophisticated tools. And if the process compromises your data security, your mainframe security and operations team have to be diverted from other value-adding projects.

At Rocket Software, we understand these challenges and offer a comprehensive solution to simplify your ESM conversions and mitigate associated costs. Our leading security experts and robust conversion services ensure a seamless transition with minimal disruption, enhancing data accuracy and security.
